Sanlorenzo presents La La Land, first unit of the 44X-SPACE range

Press release, 18 December 2023 -Sanlorenzo is proud to present 44X-SPACE, a new superyacht range that takes the legacy of the Explorer line with the sophistication of the Steel line, seeing today the first two units delivered and at sea. The 44X-SPACE is a harmonious fusion of two distinct yet complementary design philosophies. In an exquisite interplay of proportions and equilibrium, the yacht boasts graceful and understated line. At the heart of the vessel lies its transformative spatial versatility, in line with Sanlorenzo's bespoke approach. The layout ensures optimal onboard livability, with innovative solutions both externally and internally, redefining perceptions of space with a personalized touch.

July 2023 saw the delivery of the La La Land, the epitome of ambition and customization within this novel range. The design is substantive and simultaneously light: everything that is not a structure becomes a transparent surface, breaking down all boundaries between indoor and outdoor. Studio Zuccon International Project signs a unit in which luminosity involves the entire vessel: large windows, wisely positioned, offer suggestive glimpses of the surrounding environment in an eclectic, open and continuous dialogue with the sea. The interiors, designed by Piero Lissoni, embrace this lability of boundaries between inside and outside in a fluid and iridescent way, taking the concept of contamination between environments and raison d'être to its maximum expression.

"On 44X-SPACE the hand has been forced and it has become an almost completely glass boat: there are large glass panes, large windows and some of the cabins no longer even have portholes but glass walls. The interior has forced its hand on the exterior and the exterior has been so elastic and so well designed that the interior almost fits in in a totally natural way. I believe this is the most innovative language I have seen to date on a superyacht and it has made it possible to create a boat that is compact but with extraordinary proportions and the unique quality of Sanlorenzo."

Piero Lissoni, Art Director Sanlorenzo

La La Land flaunts an unconventional six-deck layout and a voluminous 499 GT, embodying unprecedented character and features. The ultimate goal is the expression, in every feature, of the perfect balance between the courage to make innovative choices and the preservation of delicate, classic lines, an embodiment of Sanlorenzo's timeless class.

Access aboard La La Land is through the Main Deck, where a sea-facing swimming pool frames an open-air lounge, extendable through folding balconies. A characteristic feature of the model is the addition of an outdoor cockpit dedicated to a lounge area, protected and sheltered both at the top and at the sides, guaranteeing maximum privacy for the owner and his guests. The continuity between outdoors and indoors is emphasized by the use of sliding doors that disappear into the structure to create a single open space.

Thanks to the asymmetrical aspect of the deck, the environment welcomes an initial living area with generous volumes. Continuing on the Main Deck, the real star of this yacht is the elegant helicoidal staircase designed by Piero Lissoni, a work of art that embellishes the interiors by linking the four decks into a single central body. The bow space is dedicated to a multifunctional area with two different configurations, designed to meet the desires of a clientele that loves relax and conviviality: a dynamic environment that can be configured as a cinema or dining area capable of accommodating up to 12 guests around a convertible dining table. The great flexibility of this area crowns the customization possibilities offered by 44X-SPACE: the owner is offered the possibility of arranging a sixth guest cabin here as an alternative. An unexpected layout enriched by a direct view of the water thanks to the large expanse of glass windows.

La La Land's Upper Deck is exclusively devoted to the owner, in which privacy is the absolute protagonist. The space is designed for the dedicated individual, in a new 'made-to-measure' that stems from a continuous dialogue with the personality of the person living it. A first outdoor area positioned at the stern with windbreaks at the sides makes it possible to enjoy outdoor spaces even during meals. The living area connects with the outside thanks to the presence of sliding doors that disappear into the structure. In addition, the possibility of opening the entire side window allows you to create a veranda in which to fully enjoy the fresh air. The master cabin reflects the majesty of the 5entire design: full-height windows combine with a skylight that can be opened to let in the sea breeze even while sailing. The master cabin overlooks a foredeck totally dedicated to the owner with private access, with sunbed area and integrated swimming pool.

An innovative aspect of the 44X-SPACE is the relocation of the wheelhouse and the captain's private spaces to the Bridge Deck. Although this is a more technical area, here too all the spaces have been designed to maximize livability for guests. La La Land, specifically, features an external area protected by windbreaks that accommodates the dining, galley and living area aft. A bronzed mirror reflects the colours and details of the surrounding nature, becoming a decorative element that broadens the horizon.

The Sun Deck, situated atop the highest deck, functions as a luxurious terrace with a spacious living area, providing a 360° panorama of the sea. The Lower Deck accommodates 4 double cabins with en-suite bathrooms, 2 VIP cabins and 2 Guest cabins, pervaded by external light thanks to portholes defined by their large dimensions. All the spaces dedicated to the crew are also located on this deck: a meticulous study of the subdivision and layering of the superyacht's internal structure allows the crew to move from stern to bow without ever interfering with the spaces dedicated to guests.

The Beach Area, extendable through side panels, houses the Gym & SPA area, offering direct access to the sea via an opening staircase. Select materials in natural, neutral tones, in harmony with the seascape, are skillfully combined to create a unique result. A refined selection that gives the space elegance and comfort, but at the same time lightness and brightness: the oak parquet on the floor, together with the celino fabric, are harmoniously linked by the unusual use of resin applied to the walls.

The 44X-SPACE stands out for its avant-garde perspective, blending innovation with Sanlorenzo's hallmark attention to detail and design heritage.
